New state tests challenge Gallatin students, teachers

Students in Gallatin County and across Kentucky are taking new standardized tests this month that educators say are longer and more difficult than any in the past. Educators also say the results of the new tests may be bleak.

Gallatin County students began taking the tests last week. They are given to students in grades 3-12 and cover reading, math, science and social studies.

The new tests are called K-PREP, which stands for Kentucky Performance Rating for Educational Progress. They replace the Common-wealth Accountability

Testing or CATS whose objective was getting students to reach academic proficiency. The new tests are part of a system called Unbridled Learning that focuses on students’ college and career readiness in hopes of ensuring their success after high school.

The new tests are mandated by passage of Senate Bill 1 by the Kentucky General Assembly.

“Your proficiency scores may be in the range of 50 percent proficient, Kentucky Education Commissioner Terry Holliday cautioned school officials. “We shouldn’t use that as scare tactic. The key thing is to remember this is just the beginning.”

Results of the K-PREP test are expected in September. Parents will receive personalized reports that will tell them how their school compares with others in the state and about their child’s progress toward the goal of being 100 percent ready for college or a career.

“This is new to all of us, administrators, teachers and students,” Gallatin County middle school Principal Curt Bieger said Friday as he watched sixth graders take one of tests. “We have been preparing for this for a year and while he hope our results will be good, realistically we think our scores will go down under this new system.”

Bieger admitted there was some nervousness and pressure among the teachers and students because of the importance of the new tests. He also said many teachers were excited because they have worked hard and are anxious to see how their students do.

The K-PREP tests feature norm-referenced test items with questions that allow a student’s performance to be compared to other students. It also features criterion-referenced

Stephenson charged with brutal killing

May face death penalty

Charles “Steve” Stephenson, of Walton, who is well known to many in Gallatin County, was charged last Thursday, May 10, with the brutal murder of Leigh Jennings in her Aurora home in March.

Although investigators have not confirmed it, Stephenson may also be a suspect in the murders of his uncle and aunt, Bill and Peggy Stephenson, in their Boone County home last May.

Last Thursday, Dearborn County Prosecutor Aaron Negangard said Stephenson killed Jennings by striking her repeatedly with a skillet and a large pepper grinder. Photos of a bloody skillet and pepper grinder were shown at the press conference. Stephenson then allegedly stole $1,000 from Jennings. Police say he needed the money to repay a debt so he could stay out of jail.

Negangard said Stephenson’s DNA was found on the pepper grinder and may also be on the skillet.

Police said Jennings, who worked as a barber at Jim Young’s Barbershop in Florence, was beaten to death on March 29, and her body was found on April 5. An autopsy determined she died from multiple skull fractures.

Stephenson is described as Jennings’s

“companion” and he usually came to her home twice a week for dinner. The two met at the barber-shop where Stephenson was a customer.

“He knew she had the money,” Negangard said. “Evidence suggests he went there with a plan to get the money.” Jennings kept large amounts of cash in her safe because she didn’t trust banks.

Stephenson was being held at the Boone County Detention Center on charges of tampering with evidence and drug trafficking when the murder charge was announced. He was arrested April 13, after he was released from St. Elizabeth Hospital in Florence where he was recovering from a suicide attempt.

Last Thursday, Negangard said Stephenson’s tampering charge was related to blood evidence found in his car.

The robbery and murder charges make Stephenson eligible for the death penalty but prosecutors could also seek a sentence of 115 years in prison.

Stephenson comes from a large and tightly knit Northern Kentucky family, several of whom live in Gallatin County. His uncle and aunt were viciously killed in their condominium on May 29, 2011. No one has been charged in their deaths.

Rural Gallatin may finally get high-speed Internet

At last Thursday night’s fiscal court meeting, Judge/executive Ken McFarland said Cincinnati Bell has shown interest in providing high-speed Internet access to rural parts of Gallatin County.

A lack of high speed Internet to many homes in the county has been a concern for several years. McFarland said at the beginning of this year his goal was to find a company that would provide the service to nearly every Gallatin County home.

“At first, Cincinnati Bell did not seem to be interested but now they are and that’s a very good sign,” said McFarland. “They certainly have the technology and now, they’re looking at where they can put their antennas. I hope this works out.

In other business:

•McFarland said the library’s $850,000 expansion and renovation project was complete. He invited the public to an Open House this Friday evening from 6:30 to 8:00 p.m. to see the improvements. The expansion was paid for by a $350,000 low-interest federal loan, donations and money the library has saved.

•McFarland said Humana would now carry health insurance for county employees. He said the policy would bring much better coverage and double the quality.

•The court learned the Glencoe Fire Department has received a new ambulance thanks to the efforts of Chief Bud Webster. The ambulance, which will become part of Gallatin County’s ambulance service, will be stationed in Glencoe.

•A second reading of a new law was passed to create a zone in the county for rural recreational resorts such as RV and entertainment parks.

•Concord/Napoleon Magistrate Joe Shinkle said residents on Rt. 562 want the speed limit on their narrow and winding road to be reduced to 35 mph. McFarland said he would write a letter to the state asking for the change.

Tuesday is Election Day

Gallatin County voters will go to the polls next Tuesday, May 22, to cast their votes in several primary elections.

Among the interesting choices for voters will be races for U.S. President, U.S. Representative, State Senator, and State Representative.

The presidential primaries will hold little suspense as both major parties have already chosen their candidates.

Nevertheless, Kentucky because U.S. Rep. Geoff Davis is stepping down, there’s been a vigorous contest for his 4th District seat. Republican candidates include: Alecia Webb-Edgington, Gary Moore, Marc Carey, Walter Christian Schumm, Brian D. Oerther, Thomas Massie, and Tom Wurtz. There are two Democrat candidates: Greg Frank, and William Adkins.

Now, I know the secret

This and That

By Kelley Warnick
Editor

After years of suffering through wilted tomatoes, scrawny beans, and moldy melons, I finally know the solution to my garden woes.

I used to think I was plagued with bad soil, not enough water and too many bugs. I was wrong. Thanks to a writer for our paper, I realize my problems have not been rooted in the soil but in the heavens.

Phil Case in his Planting by the Signs column, explains the secret to a successful garden is to plant your seeds according to where the moon sits in the sky.

As I plow my way through the Farmers Almanac to find out what should be planted when, I’m delighted Mr. Case has agreed to share his wisdom with us. At the same time, I’ve grown suspicious of some of the other members or our gardening community. Why has it taken me so long to find this secret so many people must have known for years?

There’s a chiropractor in the county who, when he’s not keeping our neighbors in perfect alignment, raises one of the finest gardens around. His beans are bountiful, his tomatoes tasty and his radishes radiant.

Summer after summer, I’ve compared his beautiful crop to my pitiful produce and looked for excuses. I’ve told myself he has better soil, better seeds, better sun or even a better hoe.

After reading Mr. Case’s columns, I realize how wrong I’ve been. The chiropractor simply must know more about the moon than I do.

Now, that I’ve been enlightened, I’m hard at work putting the moon’s magic to work. This year, I hope I’ll also have cucumbers to crow about.

I’ve learned, however, this moon business is not as easy as it sounds. Apparently, some seeds enjoy the light of a full moon, some like the dark sky of a moonless night and some like it kind of in between.

Not only that, there’s even more to consider. The moon apparently has phases. Lima beans should be planted when the moon is in the sign of the bouquet. The moon can also be in the sign of the head, the heart, the hand and I hate to guess where else.

Needless to say, I have a lot of work ahead of me. Soon, we’ll be in the dark of the moon which means it’s time to plant root type vegetables. After that comes one of the killing signs when nothing you plant will grow. Things change quickly, however, and by the end of the month, I think it’ll be time to plant just about everything.

Naturally, I’m looking forward to harvest time when I can show off my beautiful vegetables to my chiropractor friend. There’s only one thing I’m worried about. It’s awfully hard to see at night when I’m in the garden planting by the dark of the moon. I wonder if the light from my flashlight would be too bright for those sensitive carrot seeds of mine. If so, maybe I’ll get them sunglasses.

The library's expansion — a time to celebrate!

All our citizens are invited to visit The Gallatin County Public Library this Friday evening from 6:30 – 8 p.m. as we celebrate the completion of a beautiful new addition and renovation project. We hope you join us for this festive occasion as we show off this wonderful and improved community center.

I recently read an inspiring article in Library Journal by Karin Slaughter that reminded me how fortunate we are to have a public library in our county.

Reading creates better societies. This is not a theory, but a quantifiable fact. There's a direct correlation between the rate of literacy in a nation and its success. Children tend to think inward, to only see their surroundings. Reading about other people creates a sense of balance in a child's life. It lets them know there's a world outside themselves. It tells them the language they're learning at home is key to unlocking the mysteries of the greater world.

Reading develops cognitive skills. It trains our minds to question what we are told and how to think in critical ways.

For nearly 85 percent of kids living in rural areas, the only place where they have access to technology or books outside the schoolroom is in a public library. And it's a safe place to study and do homework.

We shouldn't view our library as a luxury, but rather as a necessity. Libraries are the backbone of our educational infrastructure. Students who read do well in school. Students who do well in school go to college. College students graduate to good jobs and pay higher taxes.

Libraries don't service only Democrats or Republicans. They don't judge by class, race or religion. They service everyone in their community, no matter their circumstances. Rich or poor, no one is denied.

Libraries are not simply part of our guarantee to the pursuit of happiness. They are a civil right, the foundation upon which the American dream has been built.

Our new addition here in Gallatin includes two large meeting rooms and one small study/meeting room, a newly designed children's wing equipped with a rest room and craft sink, enlarged rest rooms, and a drive-through window to drop off and to pick up materials (call in advance so we can have materials ready).

The library has free Internet access and public access computers, best sellers, DVDs, music CDs, daily and weekly newspapers, the latest magazines — and free coffee to enjoy while reading. You may print or make copies for 10 cents and fax for $1.

When it comes to family activities and entertainment, we hold regular programs for all ages throughout the year.

You don't have to spend money and you don't have to travel far to find needed resources, entertainment, fun, and a friendly face. Your Gallatin County Public Library is your community place, and that should make us all feel proud.

Political Endorsements

Editor's Note: Election Day is next Tuesday, May 22 (see story page 1). Below, are letters about some of the candidates starting with Wanda Hammons.

Dear Editor:

I was involved in a serious motor vehicle accident on September 26, 2011. I hydroplaned during a thunderstorm, hit a guardrail and my pickup truck flipped. I suffered multiple fractures and both of my legs were mangled. The doctors told me I was millimeters from death during the accident and they weren't sure if they'd be able to save my right leg.

My life happened to cross paths that fateful morning with my guardian angel, an EMT from Dry Ridge by the name of Wanda Hammons. Not only did she save my life, she figured out that my right leg was actually rotated 180 degrees and deprived of blood. Her quick thinking saved my leg from amputation.

After a few months of hospital stays and physical therapy, some of my friends held a benefit for me. Upon arriving, one of the first faces I saw was Wanda's. She was at the benefit to support me and check on my progress, even though the only time we'd met, I was unconscious and dying.

To have a complete stranger show that much love and attention to you is unheard of in this world today. I have no doubt she will carry this love for people and her willingness to help complete strangers as an EMT to Frankfort with her. I have no doubt she will do great things for the Commonwealth, just like the care and concern I received as a patient.

Kentucky Commentary

McConnell and Mourdock have a lot to work out

By James R. Carroll

On Wednesday morning, the day after he trounced incumbent Sen. Richard Lugar in the Indiana Republican primary, newly-minted GOP Senate nominee Richard Mourdock mentioned in a network television interview he had never met or spoken to the man who would be his party leader in Washington.

That would be Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell, R-Ky.

Murdock took care of that himself on Wednesday afternoon, calling McConnell.

The two men had a friendly conversation, according to Josh Holmes, McConnell's chief of staff.

Holmes declined to provide any additional details.

The McConnell-Murdock relationship, obviously, is a work in progress, but it must navigate some uncomfortable realities.

McConnell, first elected to the Senate in 1984, has spent decades working his way up the rungs of power to become leader of the GOP senators. Depending on the number of GOP victories in November – including in Indiana – McConnell could become Senate majority leader.

That kind of longevity in Washington was the target of a Mourdock ad against Lugar, elected in 1976.

"Lugar's been in Washington 36 years," Mourdock's spot said. "That's too long. Time for a change."

McConnell also has had to find a comfort zone with the tea party Republicans who have come into his caucus, a group that includes Kentucky's junior senator, Rand Paul.

As you will recall, Paul was not McConnell's first choice in the Kentucky GOP primary in 2010. Trey Grayson was McConnell's pick. When Paul defeated Grayson, however, McConnell quickly moved to support Paul.

In Indiana, McConnell stayed out of the primary fight, though his leadership PAC, the Bluegrass Committee, gave $10,000 to Lugar, as it did to every Republican incumbent senator.

Tea party-backed Mourdock is being hailed by supporters as part of the out-with-the-old-guard movement that has challenged other incumbent Republican senators this year and in 2010. And McConnell has been scanning the horizon for any signs of a tea-party challenge to his re-election in 2014, and so far none has materialized.

Back in Washington, McConnell also hears the hallway

scuttlebutt about an eventual tea-party challenge to leadership. Nothing solid has emerged, but observers keep a close eye on DeMint's moves.

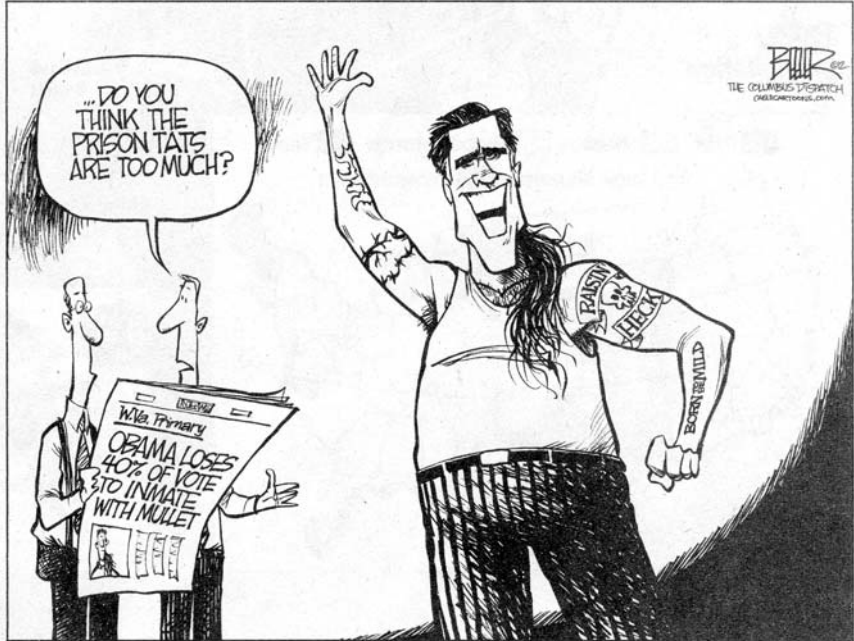

In any case, McConnell was quick to announce his support for Mourdock on Tuesday night.

Murdock, however, was less direct about his support for McConnell as leader of the Senate Republicans when asked about it on MSNBC Wednesday morning.

"If we get a few more conservatives in the United States Senate, we can certainly change the leadership, but not necessarily the people, but at least give the Senate leadership a more conservative point of view," Mourdock said.

As far as backing McConnell for leader, Mourdock said, "We've not made any decision there whatsoever."

Glencoe hopes to force home owners to mow

By Mike Dickerson News Reporter

Poorly maintained properties were the major topic at Monday's Glencoe City Council meeting. Several un-mowed properties have become overgrown with weeds and grass due to recent warm weather and rain.

One property in particular, owned by the Childs family, is now in foreclosure and the city has been mowing the property in order to keep it properly maintained. Council member JuJu Sullivan wants to see the city reimbursed for this work that has spanned almost two years.

Sullivan wants the city to place a lien on the property for the amount of the services performed. City Attorney Alecia Hubbard said the action was possible, but first the city must file a lawsuit in order to receive a judgment for a lien.

Hubbard also said this action would be difficult and costly as litigation about the disposition of the Childs's property was ongoing. She stated the city has more power to recover any expenses by enforcing the law.

Council member Mike Hampton identified six other properties that need to be mowed or have abandoned cars removed.

In other Glencoe news:

•The city purchased four security cameras for the shelter house in the city park. The cameras will be installed and the shelter will be open for the public to use after the proper signs are posted.

There will be no charge for Glencoe residents to use the shelter house. Anyone who lives outside the city who wishes to use the facility will have to pay a $25 security deposit.

•A planning meeting for Frontier Days will be held in city council chambers on Saturday, May 26 at 6 p.m.

New tests

In the past, the state tests consisted only of criterion-referenced test items.

At the high school level, students will take end-of-course assessments in Algebra II, English II, Biology and U. S. History. They will also take an on-demand writing test in which they will be presented with a question or scenario and asked to write about it.

Scores from the tests will comprise one-fifth of the total measurement of a school. The other four elements are the size of the achievement gap among subgroups, student growth, college and career-readiness and graduation rates. Schools will be grouped into categories to determine whether intervention is necessary for improvement.

Election

The State Senate primary for our 11th District offers two Republican candidates: John Schickel (the incumbent) and Joshua Turner. No Democrats are running.

The state representative race for our 61st district features several candidates to succeed Royce Adams who is retiring. Republicans will choose between Brian Linder and Scott Bruce. In the Democratic primary are two candidates: Camilla "Kay" Patton and Wanda Crupper Hammons.

Polls will be open next Tuesday from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. All Warsaw voters will vote at the City Building Annex on High Street this year instead of the Gallatin County High School.

'Founding Gardners' lecture to be held in Vevay

Andrea Wulf, renowned author of Founding Gardeners - the Revolutionary Generation, will lecture at the Hoosier Theater in Vevay on Friday, May 25, at 7 p.m.

She will examine the fascination that gardens, plants, agriculture and the expansion westward held for America's revolutionary founders.

Through U.S. presidents George Washington, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson and James Madison, the author links their horticulture endeavors to the political sphere for which they are remembered. For the founding fathers, gardening agriculture and botany were elemental passions, as deeply ingrained in their character as their belief in liberty for the nation they were creating.

Ms. Wulf has lectured to large audiences at the Royal Geographical Society in London, the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia, Monticello, the Art Museums of Colonial Williamsburg, Mount Vernon Estate and Gardens and more.

The lecture is free and open to the public due to the generous support from the Cornelius O'Brien Lecture Series.

We have lots of Mother's Day happenings this week and other news as well:

Shirley Chipman was accompanied to Jo Ann Ebert's memorial last Monday by Tim, Denise, and Koty Means, as well as other friends and family.

Shirley Chipman, Denise Means, Faye Biddle of Lexington, Mae Wallace, Mayme Walters, and Joy Higgins enjoyed the day together at the Hats Off to Mother's Day Tea on Saturday. That evening Shirley joined Mae Wallace, Lanette Morrison, Ruthie Niebergall, Faye Biddle, and Koty Means for a delicious dinner at Jewel's on Main. On Sunday, Shirley was surprised by a home-cooked meal after church for Mother's Day, provided by Derina Doolin and Lanette Morrison. They were joined by both her daughters and three granddaughters, as well as Faye Biddle, Koty Means, and Mae Wallace.

John and Marty Bennett are the proud great-grandparents of a beautiful new baby boy, who weighed in at 6 pounds, 3 ounces. The parents are John and Marty's granddaughter Lindsay Koehl and her husband Michael. They named the baby Nolan John Koehl, and his older brother, Carson, is pleased to have a little brother.

Diane Young attended a benefit in Ludlow, Thursday evening, with her cousin, Margie, and friend, Lora. Diane described it as a quarter paddle auction and great fun. She then spent the night with her mother and they drank coffee till 1 a.m. before retiring. On Saturday, they attended a 90th birthday party for her Aunt Ruth along with many other friends and family. On Sunday after church, Diane's son, Ronald, prepared dinner and they were joined by her son, Jeff, and daughter-in-law, Michelle, who made a lovely dessert. Diane said she had a wonderful Mother's Day with her mother, husband Ron, Ronald, Jeffery, Michelle, Justin, Missie, and Lila. HAPPY BIRTHDAY RUTH.

Leslie and Jeff Baillie began their Mother's Day celebration with brunch at the home of her sister and brother-in-law, Kim and Jim Whited, in Walton. Also in attendance were Leslie's parents, Jim and Bev Acree; her brother, Jimmy; Mr. and Mrs. James Whited, Sr.; Cameron Whited, Rodney and Christina Kennedy and their four children, Hotrod, Becca, Katie, and Luke. Leslie said the food was great but the weather not so much! The Baillies spent Sunday afternoon with Jeff's parents, John and Bertha Baillie of Cincinnati.

Laura, Matt, Luke, and Noah Marksberry, Connie Marksberry, and Donna Sprague celebrated Mother's Day, Sunday afternoon, at the home of Don and Wanda Sprague. The family enjoyed Wanda's home cooked meal, followed by homemade banana pudding. Laura said everyone thoroughly enjoyed being together on that rainy Mother's Day.

Mary Jane Day attended the Homemakers' second annual Mother's Day Tea at St. Joseph's Hall on Saturday. She said there were lots of pretty hats, great entertainment, and stimulating conversation. She reports they had some very nice and interesting guests in their B&B last week. Three young men from Texas arrived for the National Coon Dog Hunt. While they didn't make it to the finals held Saturday night, they were thrilled to participate and placed in the top 16 out of 60 dogs. Mary Jane said the Texas men were very nice, very polite, and particularly impressed with Kentucky's beautiful trees.

Delores and Terry Hopperton enjoyed having their children for lunch and the afternoon on Mother's Day. Joining them were Mishelle, Steve, Kera, Josh, and Kaleb Frontz; Brad, Jenny, Lila, Carter, and Madelyn Hopperton. Delores said it was a fun Sunday afternoon and she feels blessed to have such wonderful children and grandchildren.

Alice and Ron Johnson had a lovely family weekend. Six of their grandchildren spent the night Saturday — Hannah and Rebekah Mitchell, Colt and Camdyn Johnson, and Brooke and Ethan Alexander. They all went to church Sunday morning, then on to Greg and Angela Mitchell's for a cookout. Alice said it was a wonderful Mother's Day for sure!

Barbara Baker was out and about this past week. On Tuesday, she visited with Mary Lou Smith in Sparta, and on Sunday, she and Carvin enjoyed dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bishop, Jr. in Owenton.

Mary Jane and Kennie McCarty joined daughter and son-in-law, Meagan and Greg Marcum of Louisville, at Belterra, Friday night, to enjoy the delectable seafood buffet for an early Mother's Day dinner. On Sunday, they joined Mary Jane's parents, Clarence and Atha Stewart, as well as Bill and Melanie Stewart for lunch. In the afternoon, Atha, Melanie, and Mary Jane went to Jo Ann's Fabric for the big Mother's Day sale.

For all following the Lionbergers, here is how they spent Mother's Day:

Betty had all her children there and several grandchildren, including Gwen and Darrell Maines, Jack and Cindy Williamson with their children, Jacalyn and Olivia, and Olivia's friend, Josh; Mark West and his son, Anthony; Julie Hamilton with her younger children, Matthew and Hannah, and oldest daughter and son-in-law, Kristina and Rob Turner, and Keith and Carol West.

Betty and Boyd had prepared a big meal, plus all the children contributed, so there was enough to feed an army with food left over.

Betty received lots of gifts, including flowers galore, a bird wind chime, and a gift card for the beauty shop. She was very pleased to have won a hanging basket of pink Superbells at church for having the most children there Sunday.

Family and friends remembered with phone calls, cards and flowers. I did so appreciate and do thank all of you for your love and respect for Dallas and me.

God bless you,

Sincerely,

Planting by the Signs

by Phil Case

Mother's Day has come and passed – and wasn't it a damp one!

At least it didn't snow, frost or freeze so statistically we should be clear of all that kind of stuff until mid October. That gives us the all clear to plant away in our gardens. Here's what's on tap for your gardening enjoyment this week according to the phases of the moon and signs of the zodiac.

The moon is in the dark phase now and will remain there until Sunday, 7:47 p.m. when the new moon – or no moon visible – comes into force. If there's much left of today (Wednesday), your garden is ready, dry and you're "of a mind," be planting below-ground producers with the sign in Pisces (the feet).

While the moon remains in the dark phase Thursday and Friday, you really don't want to be planting with the killing sign Aries (the head) ruling. Aries and Leo are mean signs for planting.

Saturday and most of Sunday will be great days for below-ground producers, too, with the moon dark until almost 7:30 p.m. and the sign in Taurus (the neck), one of the four most fertile signs.

Then beginning Monday, May 21 and until the full moon at 7:12 a.m. on June 4, plant those veggies that produce above the ground, avoiding the days when killing signs rule. This period will serve as a really fine one for getting your garden in the ground.

According to the signs of the zodiac, as I just wrote, today is a fertile day, Thursday and Friday are killing days while Saturday and most of Sunday are fertile days again. All find the moon in the dark phase.

Then, with the new moon in force, we have two perfect bean days on Monday and Tuesday, May 21-22 with the moon in the light phase and the sign in Gemini (the arms), which is the bean sign. They'll be followed by two great general days for above-ground producers on May 23-24 with the sign in Cancer (the breast), another very fruitful sign.

If you're up to it, I would suggest taking off work and spending those days planting – beans the 21st and 22nd and then any heat-loving above-ground producing veggie on the 23rd and 24th. It just don't get no finer!

Then take a rest on May 25-26 when the sign moves to Leo (the heart), the other killing sign.

Ask Doctor Dirt...

UPCOMING FARMER'S MARKET MEETING

A farm market meeting will be held on Tuesday, May 22, at the Gallatin County Extension Office. The purpose of this meeting is to welcome new growers to our market and to talk about several new things happening this year at the market.

If you are interested in selling home-grown, homemade, or hand-crafted items at the market this season, it would benefit you greatly to attend. If you have any questions about the meeting, give me a call at 567-5481, or call Steven Combs at 743-4711.

Dear Doctor Dirt,

I've got some tobacco plants in the float beds that are yellowing-up. They've got plenty of fertilizer under them. Any idea of what's goin' on? Thanks.

D.W. Vevay

Dear D.W.,

After looking at your plants, it became apparent that your problem is a fungal disease called Pythium. Pythium attacks the roots, turns them gray (instead of white), and eventually the roots get slimy...like snot.

I noticed that the trays of plants that were affected the worst were the older trays. The older the tray is, the harder it is to sanitize. The trays are made of thousands of tiny Styrofoam balls compressed into the shape of a float tray. Unfortunately and over time, all those compressed trays want to become tiny balls again. This opens up pore spaces between the expanding balls which are great places for diseases to hide. These pore spaces also make the trays very hard to sanitize.

Since we caught the pythium pretty early in your case, you do have control options. The drug of choice for pythium is Terramaster. Make sure to read the label on the Terramaster; I believe it has one rate for preventing the disease, and a higher rate for curing the disease. Terramaster does work; I've seen it clean up some pretty nasty pythium.

If you have any more questions about pythium or Terramaster, give me a holler.

Doctor Dirt is really Dave Hull, Gallatin County Extension Agent for Agriculture. If you have farm or garden questions for the good doctor, stop by or call the extension office at 567-5481. Or, you can email him at dhull@uky.edu.

ATTENTION VOTERS:

My name is Joshua Turner. I'm a Republican candidate for state senator in the 11th district (Boone, Gallatin, and a portion of Kenton County). I write to ask for your vote and tell you why it's so important in this election year.

Our taxes are increasing, tobacco and alcohol tax, property tax, and the state gas tax, just to name a few. Our state deficit is in the billions, our budget continues to have shortfalls. The budget has seen cuts, but our state government has not. It continues to grow under this administration.

That's why I'm running. Unless we have real reform we will continue to see our taxes increase and new taxes arise. We need to boost our economy. The best way to do this is through tax incentives. Tax incentives for all new business in their first two years of startup. Tax incentives for existing businesses that increase their workforce.

We need to reform our state pension plan. Why are state employees more special than the private sector? The state pension plan as it stands now is costing all of us dearly.

We need to reduce the size of our state government. We should combine certain agencies so they may share resources. We must eliminate agencies that aren't vital our state government or to us, the citizens. This will be a hard to achieve but through your support it can be done.

This year is so important. Let's come together and vote for the change we desperately need. On May 22nd, join me in voting for change. Join me in voting for Joshua Turner.

Thank You

Political Endorsements

Dear Editor:

Those of you who know us, know that we have always been proud of our three children. Our youngest daughter, Wanda Crupper Hammons, is taking up our family business of public service.

Wanda is a candidate for State Representative for Gallatin, Grant and Owen counties in the May 22 Democratic primary. We know Wanda would make a fine State Representative and would appreciate your support and votes.

Wanda has adopted our family practice of living and working by the lessons our family learned on the farms where we grew up in Owen and Grant counties. She has always done whatever it takes to do the job right. She has made us proud of her professional life. She did fine work in the school system. As an EMT and firefighter, she has demonstrated her servant's heart. As a daughter, sister, wife, mother and grandmother, Wanda loves her family and makes us all proud.

Our family believes these values will represent us all well in Frankfort. Vote Crupper-Hammons on May 22.

Mayor Clay and Mary Crupper
Dry Ridge

Dear Editor:

Wanda Hammons is my kind of woman! Last year, I had the opportunity to see what real commitment and service to a community means when I met Wanda in Emerge Kentucky, a program that gives women the tools and confidence to run for public office.

I personally witnessed her leadership skills, fearless commitment and sincere concern for people around her. She quickly rose to the top in a group of very impressive individuals and I am honored to have spent six months training with her. Wanda is extremely well spoken and smart and will be a legislator that can make a difference. Mrs. Hammons was raised in a family of public servants and her commitment to the citizens of her district is genuine and will continue to be a priority throughout her life.

As a professional in education administration, I respect her commitment to great and affordable education. It is the cornerstone to improving our communities. I am proud to endorse Wanda Hammons for State Representative and the families in the 61st District will be fortunate to have her represent them.

Elisabeth Jensen
President and
Executive Director
The Race for Education
Lexington, Ky.

Dear Editor:

I am very proud to endorse Wanda Crupper Hammons for State Representative. Wanda has what it takes to do a great job. I have known Wanda and her family for many years and, without a doubt, she is the best candidate in this race. She will be an outstanding legislator and voice in Frankfort.

Wanda Hammons has worked in public service for the past 13 years as an EMT in Grant County. She is also employed with the local fire department as a fire fighter/EMT and serves part time with the neighboring counties.

She and her husband Dewayne, have been married for 33 years and have two sons, Brian and Craig, and five grandchildren.

Wanda is running for the right reasons. She is pro-life and pro-Second Amendment to protect gun ownership. Her life and her campaign is built upon strong faith and a solid moral compass to guide her. I trust that as your State Representative, Wanda Crupper Hammons will get the job done and get it done right.

Representative
Royce Adams

Dear Editor:

Wanda Hammons is the one and only choice for State Representative for the 61st District. She and her family reside in Grant County where her selflessness, philanthropy and service to her community are seen practiced every day through her education and long hours to the local schools, church, public services, and her ongoing volunteer work.

Wanda's unwavering dedication to her family and community are truly commendable and inspiring. I have known Wanda for over 13 years and have seen her commitment to her community never waiver, even in the face of adversity. Wanda will always stand firm and fight for what is best for her community. It is always good to know that you have a candidate who is not afraid of a debate, or to fight for the needs for the people she serves and will stand strong against the issues that are not in the best interest of the communities she will serve.

Wanda is now seeking to bring her selfless dedication and commitment to her community to the 61st district. I, for one, cannot think of anyone more suited for the job.

Jeanie Hein
Dry Ridge

The News also received endorsement letters for Wanda Hammons from Elizabeth Webb of Dry Ridge, Bobby and Lori Webb of Williamstown, and Jennifer K. Adams-Tucker of Louisville.

For Brian Lindner

Dear Editor:

On Tuesday, May 22, we Americans have the opportunity to shape our government by choosing our elected officials. With this right and responsibility, I ask you to support Brian Linder for State Representative from the 61st District.

As a Grant County magistrate, Brian has a proven track record of sound conservative "think before you spend" principles. This makes him an ideal choice for our state seat where he will work tirelessly for the people of Gallatin, Grant and Owen counties. He will continue his work to streamline government, help bring accountability to un-elected boards, and support your second amendment rights.

Make your vote count on May 22, join me and support Brian Linder for 61st District State Representative. Make a change that makes sense.

James Wells
Dry Ridge

Dear Editor:

Elected officials are often referred to as "public servants" as it is the hope that our elected officials are devoted to represent the voices of and guided by the concerns of those who elected them.

As the people of the 61st district head to the polls to elect new representation for the position of State Representative, I encourage my fellow citizens of the district to cast a vote for Brian Linder. Brian epitomizes what a public servant should be.

Throughout his two terms as magistrate on the Grant County Fiscal Court, Brian has served those he represents by devoting the time to visit routinely with constituents, asking what is important to them, listening to those concerns, and allowing the people to help guide him in his role as an elected official.

This servant's attitude, along with a strong sense of family values and high moral character, help comprise the type of leadership we need in our state House of Representatives. Brian Linder is the type of leadership we need to represent the 61st district.

David Osborne
Dry Ridge

The News also received endorsement letters for Brian Linder from Kyle Knarr

For Camilla 'Kay' Patton

Dear Editor:

I write to ask for your support for Camilla Kay Patton as State Representative. This is something new to me as I have never publicly written a letter in support of any candidate because I've never felt as strongly for a candidate as I do for Kay.

I have known Kay for most of my life. She is someone who stands for what she believes. She is running for this office because she truly believes she can help make our counties better places for all.

Kay is running for the job, not the title. She will work for us all. Please vote for Camilla Kay Patton.

Ken Lafferty
Mt. Washington, Ky.

For Bill Adkins

Dear Editor:

Kentucky has the unique opportunity with an open Congressional seat in the 4th District to choose the next member to represent this important, vital region of the Commonwealth. Many members of the United States congress hold their seats for years, if not decades, which means this opportunity for voters doesn't come along very often. Democrats will have a choice to make on May 22 to name their nominee for the important fall election.

I am Bill Adkins, and I am running to become the Democratic nominee for the United States House of Representatives.

I was born and raised in a rural county in Eastern Kentucky where the poverty rates are high and where many leave for better opportunities. I have struggled but have also been given windows of opportunity. I am a husband, father of seven, and a small businessman with my own law practice in Grant County.

Congress is deeply divided and, in many ways, dysfunctional. The typical hard-working, middle class family today is caught in a political power struggle that threatens to dismantle every safety net we have for our senior citizens and for those who have lost their jobs, are trying to get an education or training, and those who need health care services that they can afford.

Political Endorsements

There are solutions, but only if we put aside our partisan difference and work in the best interests of all citizens, not just those with the ability to hire expensive lobbyists.

The Republican budget plans of deep cuts and austerity without investment will not work. Trickle down economics does not work. Only a plan that includes reforms to our tax system, controlled spending and investment in technology, infrastructure, education and in our small businesses, will our economy experience true recovery and growth.

We are stronger if we work together and look for solutions that empower Americans rather than blame them for needing a government that works. I've never believed that dependence on government should be a lifestyle, but neither do I believe that the truly needy in this country should be set aside.

I'm proud of the Democratic values I was raised with — hard work, fairness, and duty to our communities and country, and true compassion for those less fortunate.

Bill Adkins

Editor's Note: The following letter is in response to last week's editorial about V-E Day.

Memories of V-E Day

Dear Editor:

Like most people reading this, I wasn't around for V-E Day, but I do remember seeing the picture of the sailor kissing the nurse in the famous photo (Their names were recently released).

On Memorial Day about 15 years ago, our pastor at the Glencoe Baptist Church, Hardin Lowe, asked a member to share his memories of Normandy. Brother Russell Clark stood up and told the congregation about his first hand experience of that day. The older members of the church might have already known, but for younger members, the account was horrifying.

Brother Clark told us the soldiers were expected to leave their ships and walk to the shore. But the depth was not correctly judged. The end result was that many fine young men lost their lives in water that wasn't all that deep. But it was deep enough to drown them due to the heavy combat gear they carried. I won't relate all he said, but the memory of that Sunday morning stands fresh in my mind.

One incident in the European theater of World War II that I would like to share was related by my grandmother who had three sons in the service.

My uncle, Oral McKinney, was a cook for the U.S. Army and was in France during a particularly bad siege. On a hot and humid night, Uncle Oral used an Indiana trick to get to sleep. He climbed off his cot and slept on the ground. The next morning his tent was riddled with holes and his tent mate was dead.

My dad, Oran McKinney, served in the Pacific Theater of World War II. He wouldn't talk about his experiences except for one — the time he thought his seconds were numbered while flying.

The plane was high enough that the engines iced over, the engine cut out and he went into a nose dive straight towards the Pacific Ocean. When the plane hit a warmer air mass, the ice melted and the plane was able to stay in the sky. He also told us about flying through a rainbow. He said it was a circle and they could see it above and below them.

My dad, Russell and my uncle are long gone now. May their sacrifices for us live forever!

Marie McKinney Stone, Greenfield, Ind.

VOTE FOR SCOTT BRUCE IN THE MAY 22 REPUBLICAN PRIMARY

I am Scott Bruce. I was born and raised in Mason, Ky. Like my father and grandfather, I am a third generation grocer at Bruce's Grocery. At an early age I was taught work ethic, equality and fairness. Karen, my wife of 17 years, and I have raised our three children with the same principles. I am a 1981 graduate of the University of Kentucky with a Bachelors of Science in Business Administration. I will take sound business practices to Frankfort and work for you. Over 76 years, Bruce's Grocery has seen a lot of changes and tough times. Using common sense in these times, is what we as Kentuckians need in Frankfort. We need our legislators in Frankfort to stop playing their political games and DO WHAT IS BEST for Kentuckians and LEAD US through these uncertain times.

Scott Bruce the Citizen's Candidate
To make a change -
you must vote.

"You should know how your candidate feels about the issues important to you. I stepped into this race because of my concern that our government is slipping away from the people's control. I fear our government has become controlled by career politicians who reserved politics for the wealthy and not for what is best for Kentucky. Gallatin, Owen and Grant Counties need a conservative, like me, to focus on ways to bring jobs to our area and to vote against tax increases.
PRO-GUN - MEMBER NRA
PRO-LIFE - PRO-CONSERVATIVE

As your State Representative I believe in and will work for:

- ☒ Term Limits
- ☒ A stop to legislators receiving health and retirement benefits at tax payers expense after leaving office.
- ☒ No more educational mandates so students may learn and teachers can teach
- ☒ Right to work - Lets bring and keep jobs in Kentucky
- ☒ Getting state employees' retirement fund refunded.

For those of you I have not personally talked to, I am concerned for our government, your constitution and your fiscality in government and your way of life. I believe firmly that legislators should accomplish their work in regular session.
